NEW COLLEGE BOARD CHAIRMAN

Local real estate sales manager Dave Penn was the new face in the chairman's seat at the April 11, meeting of the Kwantlen College Board.

Penn, elected by acclamation at the March Board meeting following the resignation of Kwantlen's former, and until then only, Board chairman, has been a member of the Board since 1981 when the College was formed.

A resident of Surrey, Penn has been involved not only with educational concerns but also with the Boy Scouts, the United Way, the Surrey Chamber of Commerce and the Surrey Rehabilitation Society.

Elected Vice-Chairman at the March meeting was Laura Syberg-Olsen who joined the Kwantlen Board in the spring of 1984.

Both positions are without term, as are the remaining five positions on the Kwantlen Board. One position remains vacant with the resignation of Mr. Gingell.

STUDENTS INVITE BUSINESS TO LUNCH

With unemployment rates in B.C. hovering around 15 per cent, people who want to work have to try extraordinary methods to find a job. And the last week in March, Kwantlen College Accounting students at the Richmond campus did just that.

Rather than knocking on doors with resumes in hand, the 25 students asked business people to come to lunch. The invitees got a chance to meet accounting students who will soon be graduating as well as first year students, in a relaxed, informal atmosphere of a local Richmond restaurant, and students got a chance to acquaint potential employers with the program and the training they've undertaken.

Students were very pleased with the turnout, said Kwantlen's accounting instructor George Battistel. Personnel managers from B.C. Rail and the Bank of B.C. took time to meet with the students, as did representatives from the CGA and RIA accounting associations, a staffing officer from the Public Service Commission and controllers from the Municipality of Richmond and Canada Transport.

The luncheon was arranged totally by the students. They even picked up the tab for the affair, by running hockey pools and raffles earlier in the semester to raise funds.
