

College and Federal Bank to Help Surrey Business

The Federal Business Development Bank and Kwantlen College have launched a new community business program to assist Surrey companies in developing their businesses.

- Provide advisory assistance to business people for analysis and implementation of new ideas
- Assist in business problem solving

Federal Business Development Bank Banque fédérale de développement

The program will provide management skills and learning opportunities for small businesses so that they can expand their business to meet market needs.

Over a one-year period 32 businesses will participate in workshop sessions followed by individual on-site practical counselling.

The program objectives are:

- Reduce risk of business failure
- Accelerate owner and business development
- Maintain existing employment levels and create new full-time jobs
- Design and make available relevant workshops

- Assist owners in achieving business goals
- Encourage the development, analysis and use of records and information systems

Kwantlen President Adrienne MacLaughlin called the program a "marvellous opportunity" for local businesses to access the skills needed to grow and compete in larger and more sophisticated markets. She added that Surrey, one of the fastest growing municipalities in Canada, will particularly benefit from the program.

The Minister of Advanced Education and Job Training, Stan Hagen, heralded the new initiatives and said, "It is important

Kwantlen Presents RET

Rational Emotive Therapy Education is for people who want to learn and apply some of the main principles and techniques of RET to everyday living, to overcome some of their self-defeating thoughts, feelings, and behaviors, and to enjoy life more.

Rational Emotive Therapy Education consists of experiential exercises, discussion, and demonstrations with workshop participants. It is designed to help you learn to disrupt self-defeating habits of thinking and behaving, to encourage new ways of looking at yourself and others, and to help you to develop more effective and enriched living.

Some of the main areas to be included in the sessions are:

- Achieving unconditional self-acceptance
- Enhancing and expanding interpersonal relationships
- Surrendering perfectionistic tendencies
- Discovering irrational beliefs leading to emotional upsets

- Vigorously disputing these irrational beliefs
- Dealing with unproductive anger
- Overcoming low frustration tolerance
- Challenging depression
- Eliminating procrastination
- Setting and achieving practical life goals

While there is no magic and while any benefits you may receive from RET require work, by actively participating you may increase your capacity to identify, understand, and optimize your feelings; you may see reality differently; and you may learn to cope with your problems and handle your upsets more effectively.

that those people who are entrepreneurs—who have good ideas for the creation of business—know how to manage the business."

Douglas Kerley, Vice President & Regional General Manager, Federal Business Development Bank, said "This program recognizes that small businesses are conceived and developed from an owner's aspirations, reflecting his/her values, style and perceptions, and that these natural entrepreneurial instincts require only fine-tuning and developing to increase individual business performance."

A "blue ribbon" advisory committee has been established to help oversee the program. Members on the committee include representatives from Kwantlen, the Chamber of Commerce, FBDB, Canada Employment and Thorne Ernst & Whinney.

The cost to businesses for participating is $625 for one year.

Mary Boni links Computers and Fashion on TV

Mary Boni, of Kwantlen's Fashion Design program, is going to be on television early in the New Year showing how computer technology is used in the fashion business.

Mary was invited by UBC's Computer Studies in Education to participate in a series for the Knowledge Network, which starts Saturday, Jan. 23 at 11 a.m. The series can also be seen on Mondays, starting Jan. 25 at noon. The telecourse is titled Computer Studies in Education (CSED 400) and consists of 12 half-hour lessons.

Mary's segment (toward the end of lesson three) was a collaboration of Mr. Jax of Vancouver, a well-known Vancouver garment maker; Gerber Garment Technology of Tolland, Conn.; and the Fashion Arts Program of Kwantlen.

Leona Gom Wins Award

Leona Gom, on a year's leave of absence from our English and Creative Writing programs, has won a major literary award.

Leona won the Ethel Wilson Fiction Prize at the Third Annual B.C. Book Prizes, held at the Pan Pacific Hotel Oct. 30. She won for her novel, Housebroken, published by NeWest Publishers. It's set in Chilliwack, and, Leona told the audience at the award show, features a protagonist who "has a lot of anger that she doesn't know what to do with. I feel that about a lot of people in B.C." She added that, nevertheless, there are some elements that make it "actually a very comic novel."

Congratulations, Leona!
